MISS WORDSWORTH'S
RECOLLECTIONS OF A TOUR MADE
IN SCOTLAND IN 1803, IN COMPANY WITH HER BROTHER AND S. T. COLERIDGE.
Edited by Principal SHAIRP, LL.D.

"If there were no other record of her than those brief extracts from her journal during the Highland tour which stand at the head of several of her brother's poems, these alone would prove her possessed of a large portion of his genius. Larger extracts from them occur in the poet's biography, and in the edition of the poems of 1837, and often they seem nearly as good as the poems they introduce. Might not that wonderful journal even yet be given entire, or nearly so, to the world?"

North British Review.

"The volume glistens with passages nearly as charming, showing how rich in 'Wordsworthian' fancy was this modest sister. . . . We have to thank Dr. Shairp, and the thanks must be hearty, for row for the first time giving them in a complete form."—Athenæum.

Scotsman.

"All who love Wordsworth and Nature will welcome this book. To many it will add 'a more precious seeing to the eye,' and make them understand how, if they look, they will see."

"Next to the charming simplicity, we like the quiet, picturesque power of this diary."—Dundee Advertiser.

"The book is one to be read and prized—to be read through with delight, and to be often taken up again with an ever full enjoyment."—Daily Review.

"A simple, and in many respects a touching record is this, brimming over with sisterly love—womanly, tender, and graceful."—Standard.

"Many readers will turn with a pure delight from mental wars and questions, to wander amid the grandeur and beauty of Scottish glens and mountains in the company of so bright a being as Dora Wordsworth, the loved and loving sister of the poet."—Windsor Gazette.

"As a picture of Scotland seventy years ago, there is not in the whole compass of English literature a work that can be said to equal or even approach this one."—Literary World.

"The 'Journal' would be worth reading if it were only for the sake of finding these lines in their proper place. 'What? you are stepping Westward? Yea.'—Academy.

"Principal Shairp's prefatory account of Miss Wordsworth, and of her relations to her brother, is written with fine taste and discrimination: and this volume is one which adds a strong personal regard and affection for Miss Wordsworth to the pleasure of the wide range of associations which her brother's great name excites in the minds of all genuine lovers of his deep and buoyant genius."—Spectator.

"It will extend the fame of Wordsworth, and cause many who know him not, or are little acquainted with his writings, to become his admirers; and ever more with us the name 'Dorothy' shall be melodious as the name of one who is a sweet-souled benefactress of our race."—Aberdeen Herald.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST.

BY THE

Rev. F. W. FARRAR, D.D., F.R.S.,

Master of Marlborough College and Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen.

In Two Volumes, price 24s.

From the TIMES.

"Dr. Farrar's qualifications for this great work are in many respects eminent. As a distinguished linguist, he is capable of appreciating as few men can the results of textual criticism; as an accomplished scholar, he is familiar with all the illustrations which literary knowledge can bring to bear on the subject; while, as an earnest divine, he is keenly alive to the spiritual significance of the words and deeds he is narrating. . . . The value of the book in reference to sceptical objections will be that it exhibits, in a most favourable form, the aspect which the life of Christ bears when regarded from an orthodox point of view. No thoughtful mind will rise from the perusal of this book without feeling that it reveals a beautiful and a harmonious conception. It will serve to raise the mind from mere objections in detail to a comprehensive view of the whole subject, and it will at the last assist candid objectors to do justice to the Christian tradition."

From the GUARDIAN.

"We have in every page the results of an intimate acquaintance with the literature, bearing upon his great subject, while the quotations and references in the notes more especially intended for the learned reader, substantiate the author's claim that, 'without intending to be exhaustive or specially erudite,' his pages 'contain much that men of the highest learning have thought and ascertained.' . . . We pass to our Lord's teaching. In no department of his difficult work, we think, has Dr. Farrar more strikingly displayed his literary ability than in the skill with which he has condensed the larger discourses of Christ, e.g., the 'Sermon on the Mount'—and brought out their salient points, with a clear apprehension of the meaning of his words, and the impression they made on those who heard them. No part will be read with greater pleasure or advantage."

From the STANDARD.

"Regard the book from what point of view we may, it stands almost alone as a life of Christ, both in beauty of style and in completeness."

From the DAILY TELEGRAPH.

"Space does not permit us to notice as they deserve the abounding Notes, which show the brilliant scholarship of their author, and present on almost every page matter for study and reflection to the cultivated reader. Enough if we say that the simple and unlearned Christian will find in this new life of his Master edification and delight; that the sceptic will read it with none the less attention because he and his opinions are treated with chivalrous respect; and that the scholar will give it an honoured place among the works which best elucidate the all-important matters of which it treats."

From the ECHO.

"The volumes are full of accurate scholarship, of the results of varied and extensive reading, of graphic description, of glowing and earnest eloquence; and few who will read them will close them without feelings of gratitude to Dr. Farrar for this contribution to Christian literature."

From the NONCONFORMIST.

"Except in translations from the German, we have no life of Christ which so completely embodies the results of modern Biblical science, and commends itself to those who retain a hearty faith in the Gospel Christ came to be and to teach. . . . It was, therefore, a happy thought which led Messrs. Cassell to resolve on issuing a life of Christ which, while it embraced the most recent discoveries of Biblical science and criticism, should address itself to the general reader, and place them at his command. A scholarly yet popular life of Christ was much wanted by the thousands who teach in our schools, and by the tens of thousands who now read and study the Gospels for themselves. This want has been met, met fully and admirably, by the life now before us."

"It is one, and by no means the least, of the many merits of Dr. Farrar's unrivalled work, that it looks honestly in the face, and gives a satisfactory solution to every real difficulty in the Gospel narrative which has been made the vantage-ground of sceptical criticism. The evidence adduced by Dr. Farrar (Vol. I., page 141, 148) in favour of the authenticity of the Gospel of St. John, may be noted as a sample of his successful defence of a critical position, attacked so often, and with so much consummate ability."

From the PRESS and ST. JAMES'S CHRONICLE.

"Dr. Farrar's 'Life of Christ' is beyond question the book of the season. Its glowing eloquence, its happy illustrations, and its lessons of practical devotion, and the reality with which it seizes upon and holds to the last our warmest emotions, our tenderest interest in this divinest of lives, have carried the volume to the very height of popularity, and no fewer than four editions of the work passed from the press into the hands of the public within a week of its publication."

From the ACADEMY.

"We do not hesitate to say that the amount of illustrative matter thus accumulated is by far the richest that has been hitherto offered to the English public. In most writers this would have led to heaviness or pedantry, but nothing could be farther from anything of the kind than Dr. Farrar's writing. The varied reading and culture of the author comes out on nearly every page. . . . Dr. Farrar's book has filled extremely well what has hitherto been a void in English theological literature; it is admirably adapted to the public for which it is intended. For a book which appeals to nearly the whole reading population, it would be difficult to have one more thoroughly scholarly and trustworthy."

From the ATHENÆUM.

"The author is an orthodox Churchman, holding the opinions of Christ and his mission common to such as he. He is also a scholarly man, who has read much, and can turn the results of his reading to good account. He forms his own opinion, and states it fairly. . . . The tone of the publication is excellent, its spirit and aim praiseworthy."

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY, the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester, with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England, having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the particular attention of the public to their investment.The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very pleasing profits, which profits will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present Company for that purpose.As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others bagatelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars, but to all who desire to secure a permanent income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information;

THE ACADEMY

A WEEKLY REVIEW OF LITERATURE, SCIENCE, AND ART.

WITH the Fifth Volume the ACADEMY entered at the beginning of the present year upon a new phase of its existence. Instead of 480 pages of text a year, it now publishes, in fifty-two weekly numbers, 1040 pages, each of which will contain one-fourth more matter than the old ACADEMY page.

Three-fourths of each number of the new ACADEMY is devoted to Literature of the Imagination, Travels and Antiquities, History and Biography, and includes regular notices of the Picture Exhibitions, the Music of the Season, and the current Drama, English and French. There are periodical news-letters on literary, artistic, and scientific subjects from the chief capitals of Europe, and from America; and an adequate space is set apart for correspondence between literary men, jottings of interest, publishers' announcements, personal news, and the like. In all these matters the ACADEMY tells people of all classes who are aiming at the higher culture, what to choose and what to discard, in unmistakeable terms and with promptitude.

The remaining fourth part of the periodical is occupied with scientific matters interesting to a smaller class of readers, but divested as far as possible of all unnecessary technicalities which render them uninteresting or unintelligible to the educated as distinguished from the scientific reader. The various departments of knowledge have now become so minutely specialised, that even the scientific man can no longer hope to keep pace with discovery in all directions at once, and beyond the limits of his own peculiar study occupies to a greater or less extent the position of the educated layman or general reader. So that the wants of the small scientific class are in this respect identical, or nearly so, with those of the larger reading public. These requirements vary in different countries and at different periods, and can only be ascertained by actual experience. Our experience during the past four years has been that the scientific matter to be found in the ACADEMY has been pitched in too high a key, or at least has been presented in too technical a form to be so practically useful even to the scientific reader in this country, and at the present time, as it might without any diminution of fulness or accuracy be made. We propose then to ourselves a much more difficult task than we have hitherto attempted, viz. that of making this department of the ACADEMY useful to all, and engaging the attention and interest of all educated persons in the progress of European knowledge.

This department will embrace Natural Philosophy, Theology, and the Science of Language, especially of the English Language and Dialects, and the very important and interesting study of Comparative Philology, in connection with the Mythology, Folklore, Manners, Customs, and Institutions of the various races of Mankind.

It may be asked, why retain the name ACADEMY if the paper is to be so entirely re-organised as to form to all intents and purposes a new critical organ?

We have re-organised the paper because we think that such a critical organ as we have described is wanted. As to the retention of the name, a few words of explanation are necessary.

Very few persons have, we think, understood what was meant by calling the old fortnightly periodical, which we now propose to supersede, the ACADEMY.

The word "Academy" suggests to most average Englishmen, in the first instance, the idea of a second-rate and pretentious private school. It is also the name of a chartered Institution in London, which has won a reputation for fairness and discrimination in hanging pictures. As the name of this periodical, it appears to have given the impression to some persons that we propose to ourselves to treat of matters exclusively interesting to schoolmasters and professors at the Universities. But in all European languages except the English an "Academy" means a central organ of sound information and correct taste in intellectual matters. The great French Academy founded by Richelieu has more particularly taken under its charge the maintenance of the purity of the French language. The Academies founded in the principal German Capitals, and elsewhere, in imitation of the French, have laid a greater stress upon the maintenance of correct information in matters of scientific knowledge, and the renowned Academy of France has added to itself special Academies having the same object.

Now it is in the sense in which the word is understood on the Continent, in the sense of a standard of correctness in intellectual matters, that the name was and is still applied to the ACADEMY Journal. The great national importance of concentrating the intellectual forces of a country is recognised in every country but our own; and this recognition has justified the employment of public funds for the maintenance of the Foreign Academies as public Institutions, and the partial support of their members. And the absence of such an Institution in England has had this result, that a larger amount of bad work both in literature and in science passes unchallenged in this country than in any other, standing upon the same level of civilisation.

What, then, in other countries is done for learning and science by means of an Institution supported at the public expense, we propose to accomplish in this country, not only for these but for all the materials of culture and refinement by means of a periodical subjected, after the English manner, to the economic conditions of supply and demand, viz. to keep the reader up to the mark of what is best in the world, to gibbet mercilessly what is bad, and to criticise with sympathetic fairness what falls between these two extremes.

Keeping thus always to the main stream of the best production, we shall have to point to Germany for Science, to France for Art, but to our own country for Poetry and Fiction, for the Literature of Manners and Society, for Travel and Adventure, as well as for the great philosophic ideas which are transforming the mental horizon of mankind.

But there is, we are firmly convinced, no necessary connection between setting up a standard of correctness and being unintelligible or unattractive to the average reader. It is true that much of the attractive writing in this country is deficient in accuracy, and perhaps no less true, that our own work hitherto has preferred accuracy to attractiveness. Still we believe that it is practicable to unite both these qualities in criticism; and by our elaborate organisation of departmental editing, we confidently expect that we shall be able, as we have determined, to unite them in our new issue.
